

Summary of Stock Report

Over the last 3 weeks I have learned that the stock market is rather unpredictable. The stocks that I was tracking all went up and down some days they would drop about a dollar and a half then some days they would drop only two cents. That proves how unpredictable it is. It could take up all your money in a day you could lose thousands of dollars then some days you may make a lot of money all depending if you sell or take the gamble of waiting for the next day. But overall my stock turned out to be very surprising I thought I would end up losing money but instead I gained $966.44 that I thought was quite overwhelming since the stocks I picked were all really big corporations that either gain a lot or lose a lot of money so I learned it is alright to make a gamble if it pays off in the end. Now if only I could of done this in real life I would be well on my way to college and making a lot of money.
